

--The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

--Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has improved our time at home by not interrupting our leisure time.

--Indiana's law has been quite effective in reducing the number of calls received from telemarketers. I used to receive 12 calls per week, now I only receive one.

--The importance of Indiana's law is clear and should be more strict if anything. That is to say that calls from charities should also be blocked.
